A POISONING CASE.

Arrest of a Woman For Killing Her Husband.

A Had Showing For Mrs. Fisher and One Mr. Kaiser-The Woman Captured, But Kaiser Makes His Escape-Details of a Case That Has a Very Ugly Look.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—On the evening of the 8th inst. Adam Fisher, who kept a saloon and dairy on the Carthage pike, near the Mitchell avenue tollgate, died suddenly, and it was reported that the cause of death was heart disease. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Lieutenant Wappenstein, of the police force, and he, being acquainted with the domestic affairs of the dead man, suspected that there had been foul play, and that the widow of the deceased was guilty of poisoning her husband. It has been notorious for two years that Mrs. Fisher had a lover in the person of a good looking young fellow named Joseph Kaiser, who formerly worked at Fisher's dairy. Kaiser also fell under suspicion. Coroner Muscroft, in the progress of his investigation, had a post mortem examination made, and submitted the stomach of the dead man to Professor Edward S. Wayne, who on Tuesday reported that an analysis showed the presence of a quantity of strychnine sufficient to kill any man. Upon being told this, Lieutenant Wappenstein had a warrant issued for Mrs. Emma Fisher, the widow, and Kaiser, the lover, charging them with murder in the first degree. The Lieutenant arrested Mrs. Fisher at her house, and as he was put-ting her into the buggy Kaiser came along riding on a milk wagon driven by another man. The officer called upon Kaiser to stop, whereupon the driver whipped up his horses, and as they galloped off the Lieutenant shot at Kaiser but missed him. The fellow escaped into the woods. Mrs. Fisher takes her arrest very coolly and denies her guilt. She is exceedingly anxious to shield Kaiser.

Six months ago Fisher told Lieutenant Wappenstein that he feared to eat anything at home lest he might be poisoned. The Lieutenant advised him to leave the place at once to save himself from being murdered. While Kaiser was employed at Fisher's dairy he ran things to suit himself and Mrs. Fisher, and Adam was treated in a shameful manner. At the inquest held by the Coroner Mrs. Fisher testified that a short time before her husband died she gave him a couple of powders of bromide. Expert testimony show-that bromide is not put up in powders () LD BROWN'S PILE C: RE will cure any | She said that the reason she gave him the powders was because he complained of not feeling well. It is not clear where the owders in uestion Fisher had violent spasms just before he

OLD MANN.

one of Daniel Boone's Chums Has a Birthday.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Sept. 20 .- This city doubtless can boast of the oldest man in the State, in the person of Christopher Mann, who with his posterity has just celebrated his 109th birthday. Since 843 this aged man has lived in this county on a farm, one and a half miles north of the city, and yet was in control the from superintending its cultivation. In honor to the aged sire who has so long known this county as his home, and sustained such an enviable reputation, the children of him and the neighbors visited him and surprised him most agreeably by their presence and a repast spread upon the lawn. Mr. Mann, though his mind has been considered somewhat impaired fully appreciated the efforts of his friends to make his declining years a pleasure to to him, and his feelings were plainly seen to be emotions of pleasure. He was surrounded by children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great-great-grand-children and his loving wife, who with him has shared "all life's joys and sor-rows." He has been married twice, and is the father of twenty-six children, seventeen of whom are now living, the oldest being 72 and the youngest 17. Forty grandchildren, fourteen great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren claim him as their ancestor. Four generations descending from him were represented at the meeting.

Mr. Mann is enjoying good health and apparently will enjoy many other anniversaries of his birth, which occurred in Virginia, in 1774, at a time when Virginia had not been divided into counties. In Kentucky he lived and was an associate of Danied Boone.

A BLOODY BATTLE.

Details of the Recent Sharp Affray in Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 20.—Last Friday five cowboys, under the influence of whisky, rode into Ute Creek, a small village about fifty miles east of San Hilario. Don Macedonio Aragon was standing in front of his store, and was in the act of proceeding in search of a stray horse. The cowboys requested him to go to the rear of the store and call the clerk. Aragon refused. The cowboys then began to abuse him. Aragon, apprehending some harm, went to the house of one Vigil, procured a rifle, and proceeded on his way in search of the horse. The cowboys, seeing him with the rifle in his possession, rode toward him. One in advance of his comrades came up with Aragon, and proceeded to shake hands with him. After he ob-tained possession of Aragon's hand he held on to it firmly, while the remaining cowboys began firing at Aragon with their revolvers. Aragon finally disengaged his hand from the grasp of the cowboy, and sent a bullet from his rifle through one of the cowboys, which killed him instantly. Aragon then retreated to a house near by, the cowboys centinuing to fire upon himas he ran. After reaching shelter from the storm of bullets, he sent another ball into the breast of one of the surviving cowboys, which instantly ended his career. He fired again, and wounded another. By this time Aragon was so weak from four wounds, together with the loss of blood, he could no longer fire. The cow-boys fled to Texas and are still at large. Aragon lingered twelve hours, when he breathed his last. One of the cowboys is named Kidd Todd, and the whole party came from Cross ranch.

THE TOBACCO CROP.

Heavy Damage to Eastern and West ern Growth.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—It is learned from reports just received from the tobacco-growing districts that the tobacco crop in the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin has greatly suffered from the re-cent frosts. A gentleman who has examined this correspondence says in the absence of positive data it is safe to assume that by hail and frost nearly 50,-000 cases of the seed leaf crop 1883 have already been rendered useless for cigar manufacturing purposes. What may be garnered from the devastated fields east and west will make but little figure in the market reports. It will be used for something, but it will not count in the stock of future available seed leaf tobacco. At the best, not three-fourths of the crop in the States mentioned will be harvested, a circumstance that must affect present supplies, including all growths and kinds.

DEADLY OYSTERS.

An Entire Family Poisoned by Them. Marshall, Mo., Sept. 20.—Mr. J. L. Woodbridge, bookkeeper in Cordell & Dunnica's Bank in this city, together with his three small children, became suddenly and violently ill a short while after eating dinner, and physicians were summoned. They pronounced it a very severe case of poisoning and therefore administered the proper medicine. The children suffered terribly all night, but gradually grew better toward morning. Mr. Woodbridge suffered intense agony until 10 o'clock, when he also began recovering slowly, and at this writing all are con-sidered out of danger. The family had partaken of some cove oysters at dinner which the physicians stated were poisoned'

A Bad Scoundrel.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 20:-The trial of Frederick Mann, charged with the murder of four members in the Crook family, at Little Rideau, took place at the assizes, Judge Armour, presiding. H. S. Me-Donald, of Cornwall, appeared on behalf of the crown and John Maxwell, of L'Original, for the prisoner. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the several charges against him, and his lordship gave sentence at once, fixing October 12 as the date for the expiration of the horrible crime. An attempt was made to secure witnesses to prove that insunity was hereditary, but a careful examination of the prisoner by the medical Superintendent of the Toronto asylum showed that he was perfectly sane.

HUSBAND'S GALORE.

Why Mr. Featherstone Wants a Divorce.

The Queer Western Adventures of a United States Soldier and of His Wife at Home While He Was Gone-Still Another Enoch Arden Case Added to the List.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 20 .- Judge Clement, in the City Court, granted an absolute divorce to Edward Featherstone, on the ground that his wife's first husband, Edward S. Wilcox, of the United States Army, was still alive. Mrs. Wilcox was married in 1875, and, after three years, her husband enlisted in the regular army. He wrote regularly to his wife until the spring of 1879, when he was sent into the Yellowstone regions. There he was reported to have been killed in a battle with Sioux Indians. The widow, as she supposed herself, mourned for her husband for nearly a year, and then solaced her grief by marrying Edward Featherstone on January 8, 1880, in the Norfolk Street Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City. They came to live here, but their happiness was interrupted recently by the arrival of a letter from Wilcox showing that he was alive. The letter had been nearly a year on its way, owing to changes in Mrs. Wilcox's home. The letter showed that Wilcox had escaped death and had rejoined his companions. He is still in the service, being stationed in New Mexico. Not waiting for the missing husband to return, Featherstone lost no time in legally severing his relations with another man's wife. Mrs. Wilcox has two children, one by each husband.

SHARON'S SCRAPE.

What He Says About the Recent Arrest.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—Senator Sharon, of Nevada, who is here on private business, says that the published alleged agreement of marriage between himself and Miss Hill, the plaintiff in a breach of promise suit against him, was a forgery. He never wrote that paper, nor anything like it, in his life, and if there was such a paper in existence it was written by some one else. The whole story was a malicious and unmitigated lie, and he would see that the man who forged the alleged statement was properly punished, as it is a Penitentiary offense. As for Miss Hill he did not care to say anything about her at this time beyond the fact that she had been put out of a hotel tor annoying him. At some future time he might have something to say about her.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20 .- In reply to ex-Senator Sharon's charge that the adultery suit brought against him was part of a blackmailing scheme the Chronicle prints documents dated August 13, 1880, signed by the ex-Senator and Miss Hill, in which they agree to take each other for husband and wife, and also agree to keep the matter secret for two years. It also prints letters from Mr. Sharon to Miss Hill, dated from the Senate Chamber, January 24, 1881, in which he sends his "dear wife" $500, and urges her to be economical, as he was "short."

A TRADE DOLLAR LAWSUIT.

Two Hungarians Who Objected to a Fifteen Per Cent. Discount.

SHAMOKIN, Sept. 20.-Joseph Morosky and Peter Lntzlow, Hungarians, were the prosecutors, and Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, proprietors of the Simmons Hotel here, the defendants in a peculiar case that was brought up before Judge Rockefellow at Sunbury. Last July the two Hungarians visited Simmons' saloon and ordered two drinks, which they received. In payment Morosky handed the bartender a trade dollar, which he accepted, and handed back in change seventy-five cents, keeping ten cents for the two drinks and fifteen cents discount on the trade dollar. Morosky, learning that he was not allowed more than eighty-five cents for his trade dollar, demanded the discount, fifteen cents, which was stubbornly refused. Soon after both Hungarians commenced to make trouble and were roughly ejected from the saloon. They brought suit against the proprietors for damages. The jury in the case brought in a verdict of not guilty and the prosecutors to pay all costs, amounting to $114.73.

Evans, the revivalist, of Wrentham, were called up by the Judge and heard on the petition from the jury for a stay of sentence. Miss Whiting said that hereafter she intended to dispel from her mind the religious ideas by which she has been governed and would endeavor to lead a moral life. She has three illegitimate children, the youngest, about three months old, having been born in jail. She told the Court that her downfall was caused by her uncle, Mrs. Cobb's husband. Mrs. Cobb also promised to reform and sentence was deferred in both cases.

HORRIBLE CRIME.

Bloody Deed of a North Carolina

HALIFAX, N. C., Sept. 20.—At Tellery Station, near here, three weeks ago, Enrich Brown, a negro laborer, had a quar-rel with his wife. He went off to work, and returning at noon seized an ax, and as his wife was preparing dinner struck her a blow, which nearly severd her head from her body. After committing the murder he dragged the body to the fireplace, so that the ashes might absorb the blood. He shut up the house and returned to work. That night he dug a hole near the house and buried the body. The next day he was asked about his wife, and said she had gone to Virginia to see her people. This was supposed to be true until he told contradictory stories, which caused his father-in-law to become suspicious, as he knew that Brown and his wife had quarreled. Monday afternoon, the body the woman was found in her grave within three feet of the house. Brown, who had remained at work, was arrested

The man pleaded with her not to appear against him and she at last refused point-blank to prefer charges, saying that she would not go to court under any circumstances. The man was released by his captors and the disgusted crowd of men then took up the tramp for Chelsea.

AN APACHE VICTIM.

The Coroner's Inquest on George

Ward's Body. Tomestone, Arizona, Sept. 20.—The Coroner's jury in the case of George E. Ward, killed at Antelope Springs, sixteen miles from this city, returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death at the hands of hostile Apaches. It is now believed the hostiles are returning to their reservation from Sonora. This conclusion is strengthened by the fact that they stole no stock and committed no depredations other than already noted this side of the line. It was developed in the evi-dence that Ward first fired on the Indians who responded, killing him, as already stated. Travel between here and Sonora is, and will be for some time, almost entirely suspended, as the savages on the line are murdering and plundering indis-
